In which Paper is alſo contained under the like feigned Names and Repreſentations, falſe, malicious, and ſcandalous Reflections, intending to vilify His Sacred Majeſty, His Family and Government, and alienate the Affections of the People from Him; together with the higheſt and moſt groundleſs Reproaches againſt the Perſon and Memory of our late moſt glorious Sovereign King George the Firſt. We do therefore preſent the ſaid printed Paper (one Copy whereof is hereunto annexed) as a falſe, infamous, ſcandalous, ſeditious and treaſonable Libel, written, printed and publiſhed in Contempt of, and againſt the Peace of His Majeſty; and humbly pray this Court would be pleaſed to cauſe ſuch Proceeding to be had againſt the Authors, Printers and Publiſhers thereof, for their exemplary Puniſhment, as may be by Law. Fontainebleau, Oct. 29, N. S. The King paſſed the Night of the 27th Inſtant very well, ſlept as uſual; and the next Morning ſeveral Phyſicians who had been ſent for, being arrived from Paris, they found his Majeſty without any Pain, Fever, or Emotion, but ſuch as are neceſſary to force out the Pimples, and which conſtantly attend the kindeſt and gentleſt Eruption till the Diſeaſe has thrown it ſelf quite out; which is now thought to be the Caſe, by the great Quantity of Pimples which have gradually and ſucceſſively covered his whole Body, and that in ſuch a regular and eaſy Manner, that the firſt Eruptions are already drying up and diſappearing, while the latter, after having riſen to their proper Plumpneſs and Maturity, are in Suppuration. Theſe happy and kindly Symptoms have determined the Phyſicians to leave the Diſtemper to the natural Strength and Goodneſs of his Majeſty's Conſtitution, and to aſſiſt it with nothing but Bouillons and Crabs-Eyes. In this Situation his Majeſty continued laſt Night, and ſlept without Interrupion from Ten a-Clock till Seven this Morning, with the ſame Appearance of doing well; which, together with the Opinion of the Phyſicians, that all the Humours are intirely broken out, and that the Diſtemper is to be dated from Sunday the 24th Inſtant, when his Majeſty firſt began to be diſordered, tho' he concealed it, and ſtruggled againſt it, has filled this Court with the greateſt Joy.

St. James's, October 24.

This Day their Majeſties, with his Royal Highneſs the Duke, the Princeſs Royal, their Royal Highneſſes the Princeſſes Caroline, Mary, and Louiſa, returned from Windſor to reſide here.
